Part 12 - 30-74

Stonehouse Hiding

MELBOURNE — Former British Cabinet minister John Stonehouse was released from Australian detention and he and his wife Barbara went into hiding here.

Immigration Minister Clyde Cameron said Stonehouse, who has made formal application to remain in Australia, must report to Australian immigration authorities once each week.

In London, political sources said the British government will move early next year to oust Stonehouse from Parliament if he fails to resign of his own accord.